Specifically, Vejvoda asked Kent if she was afraid 💻 that the stand-alone gem would become diminished by a "sequel factory," and if she'd have control over an outside source 💻 making another movie. Fortunately, Kent confirmed that she and the producers own the rights to any sequels, so they'd have 💻 the ultimate say. On that note, she took the opportunity to shut down any speculation we shouldn't expect "The 💻 Babadook 2." As she explained, "The reason for that is I will never allow any sequel to be made because 💻 it's not that kind of film."It seems like Kent always knew "The Babadook" wouldn't have a sequel, and for good 💻 reason. She went on to say, "It's just not what the film's about. It would destroy the integrity of everything 💻 we worked so hard to protect." That makes sense, as the film's focus is specifically on the trauma of Emilia 💻 and Samuel, a story that's now been told. A sequel would dull the underlining meaning of the movie.Sometimes, a movie 💻 with a purpose like "The Babadook" is fine standing on its own.se from 'Warznes Caldera:' Can your popll PI ay WizonNE1 in 2024? - Dexerto deXERTO :
